Reconstruction Starts Soon in Devastated Area

COMPLETE PLANS FOR A NEW, MODEL SOUTHERN ITALY

SOLDIERS WEARING GAS MASKS SEARCH RUINS FOR MORE BODIES

TRAPPED LIVING VICTIMS OCCASIONALLY FOUND IN QUAKE DEBRIS

By THOMAS B. MORGAN (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Naples, July 28.—Plans for a new southern Italy were being completed today as the Italian government ordered the greatest possible speed in caring for its homeless citizens.

The rescue work in the 34 towns and cities destroyed or seriously damaged by last Wednesday's earthquake was not even completed when reconstruction plans neared the final stage. Soldiers wearing gas masks still sought among the ruins for bodies and trapped living victims.

Several hospital trains arrived here today with the quake's victims, who were placed in local hospitals for more up-to-date treatment.

The reconstruction of the devastated region will begin as soon as engineers make their final surveys of the territory's needs, and the Italian cabinet appropriates the necessary funds to carry on the work. That will be some time this week, it is believed.

Avezzano will be used as a model town in the reconstruction. This town was rebuilt in 1915 after it was destroyed by an earthquake, and contains chiefly one and two story houses of reinforced concrete. Earthquakes since then have done no damage there, and the new southern Italy will be built along those lines.

Many of the towns, such as Aquilone, will be moved from their old locations on hillsides to the valleys, where they will be safer from the earth's trembling. Most of the damage in the last earthquake was done in towns located at high altitudes. The government long had sought unsuccessfully to persuade townsmen to move into the valley.

In preparation for the vast reconstruction program, long freight trains pulled out of Naples at frequent intervals today, bearing lumber, bricks and cement for the new buildings. Other building supplies were sent in military and private motor trucks.

The homeless population, meanwhile was cared for in tents and portable huts similar to those used behind the front during the war. The devastated area resembled a great encampment.

Telegraph and telephone service has been restored completely, and damaged bridges replaced, so that communication throughout the region was normal. Radio stations, established by the army engineers, were functioning as a complementary service.

While only two American citizens were killed by the earthquake, and they of Italian ancestry, southern Italy is the "emigrant territory," and there was scarcely a family in the earthquake zone but had connections in America.

Hopes that more living persons might be rescued from the ruins were raised throughout the section when three girls, between the ages of eight and six, were extricated from a demolished house at Melfi, and when a 4-months-old boy, Filippo Antinozzi, was found beneath an overturned cupboard at Lacedonia, where his entire family was killed.

The three-day tour of King Victor Emanuel, who personally contributed 100,000 lire to the relief work, also served to bolster the inhabitants' courage. The king went from town to town, talking with survivors and rescue workers and inspecting the devastation at first hand.

Submarine L-25 Damaged in a Triple Accident

Portsmouth, Eng., July 28.—(U.P.)—The submarine L-25 was slightly damaged today in a triple accident.

The craft was first disabled in a collision with a buoy in Portsmouth harbor. Later it drifted into a ferry and then drifted into a small steamer. After escaping both collisions with slight damage it drifted into a second steamer.

The submarine later developed a list as it was towed into the harbor.

HE DOES NOT TIPTOE THROUGH THE TULIPS

Minneapolis, July 28.—(U.P.)—A barefoot burglar who tiptoes through homes while the owners sleep is being sought by police today. The shoeless one is believed to have burglarized nearly 75 homes in the last six weeks. He has been several house owners in hand once, and several house owners have had his padded footsteps. Nine homes were believed raided by the thief, netting him a total of a little more than $100.

GIANT BRITISH DIRIGIBLE TO FLY TO CANADA SOON

London, July 28.—(U.P.)—The R-100, giant British dirigible, will start its transatlantic flight to Canada as soon as weather permits, the British air ministry announced yesterday.

Weather charts at present do not indicate when flying conditions might be suitable for start of the flight, which will require between 60 and 70 hours to reach Montreal, its destination.

The dirigible returned to its hangar at Cardington early Saturday night after 24-hour test flight. It was announced that the ship was in excellent condition.

LACK OF FUNDS MAY STOP FLIGHT OF O'BRIEN, JACKSON

ATTEMPT AT RECORD BREAKING MADE ON SUBSCRIPTION TAKEN IN ST. LOUIS

O'BRIEN SAID ADDITIONAL $9,500 NEEDED OR FLIGHT WILL COME TO AN END

St. Louis, July 28.—Lack of funds may end the attempt of Forrest O'Brien and Dale Jackson to set a new record for sustained airplane flight, it was indicated today as the fliers started their second week aloft.

The flight, being made on a subscription taken in St. Louis, will come to a quick ending unless an additional $9,500 is obtained, O'Brien said in a note dropped to the ground crew.

"If all remains well we will land August 21, but it will be before if the people of St. Louis don't get some more money in. I guess we should have gone where the money was guaranteed. Suppose Jackson and myself will be the goats. How much money are we short yet?" O'Brien's note said. The "Greater St. Louis" had been in the air 168 hours at 7:11 A. M. CST.

Roosevelt Field, L. I., July 28.—Louis Reichers and Robert Black, the pilots seeking a new endurance record, celebrated the start of their second week in the air by enjoying a chicken dinner. At 8:34 A. M. today they had passed their 180th hour aloft.

BABY MIX-UP CASE NOT SETTLED

CHICAGO FAMILIES, WATKINS AND BAMBERGERS, NOT AGREED IN MATTER

Chicago, July 28.—(U.P.)—The Watkins-Bamberger baby mixup controversy was settled today—and it wasn't.

It depended upon whether you asked the Charles Bamberger family or the William Watkins family. The Bambergers said it was, that they could prove it because the baby they have has been christened George Edward Bamberger, and that was that.

But the baby which the Watkins have has not been christened and apparently isn't going to be because the Watkins do not think he is theirs. They are so sure of this they contemplate bringing suit to compel the Bambergers to exchange with them. They also contemplate suing the hospital where the babies were born.

To complicate matters further and make the tangle appear absolutely hopeless to everybody but the Bambergers, who contend there never really was a tangle at all and that it is settled regardless, the amazing discovery has been made that neither of these two babies has been legally born although they have been for days the center of a nation's interest.

Health Commissioner Arnold Kegel, to whom the parents appealed at the start of the controversy and who called together the experts whose verdict the Bambergers refused to abide by, has ordered the birth records of both babies taken out of the files.

He will not put them back, he announced, until the controversy is definitely settled, and the signatures of all four parents are included. So, as far as the law and the records are concerned, the babies haven't been born. If, however, anyone wants proof that they really do exist, he probably can find it by looking on the front page of a recent issue of almost any daily newspaper in the country.

Is Shot While Attempting to Shield Mother from Bullet

Minneapolis, July 28.—(U.P.)—Shot when he attempted to shield his mother from a bullet, John Wilke, 19, was in critical conditions in General hospital today. The shooting took place during an argument between Mrs. Mary Welke Matz and her second husband, Hilary Matz. Matz is being held by police.

American Residents of Kiukiang, Changsa, Are Evacuated by American Gunboats Today

TROOPS OF CHINESE COMMUNISTS IN AN EXTENDED ADVANCE

SUMMER VACATIONISTS, AMERICANS AT KULING, TO BE REMOVED TOO

COMMUNISTS SEIZED MANCHANG, LOOTING AND BURNING THE CITY

Peiping, China, July 28.—(U.P.)—American residents of Kiukiang and Changsa, were evacuated by American gunboats today before the unimpeded advance of Chinese communists troops into Hunan and Kiangsi provinces.

The gunboats Monocacy and Palos were dispatched to the two cities to take out Americans, who were said to number 100. They were also attempting to remove summer vacationists at Kuling before the communists reached there.

The communists already have seized Manchang, in Kiangsi province, looting and burning the city, and slaughtering hundreds of Chinese residents. Many other sections of Kiangsi province, and of Hunan where Changsha is located, also were occupied, and the advance continued steadily northward.

There was little opposition since Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, head of the Chinese nationalist government, has withdrawn his troops from Kiangsi and Huanon to reinforce his armies fighting the northern coalition rebellion in Shantung and Honan provinces.

Gen. Chiang's rear guard was being threatened by the communists' continued advance.

NOMINATIONS BY COMMUNISTS IN WISCONSIN

Milwaukee, Wis., July 28.—(U.P.)—Twelve men, one of them a negro, were nominated by communists yesterday to run as candidates in the fall elections.

They are Fred Bassett, nominated for governor, Edward Nehmer, for secretary of state, and Harry Pick, for congressman from the ninth district.

William Martillo, Superior, was chosen as United States senator nominee.

DEPOSITS IN RURAL BANKS NEARLY DOUBLE

Minneapolis, July 28.—(U.P.)—Deposits in rural Minnesota banks nearly doubled between 1913 and 1929, the Federal Reserve Bank reported today. "In 1913, 37 per cent of all rural bank deposits in Minnesota was held by banks in towns of less than 1,000. The percentage is precisely the same today," the survey said.

The storm did considerable damage to crops and trees throughout a large area. Gagner's was the only fatality of the storm, however.

AVIATORS SAVE LIVES AS SHADE TREE BREAKS FALL

PLANE CAME SPINNING DOWN FROM HEIGHT OF 1,000 FEET

EDDIE AND JULIUS TESKE HAD PUT ALL THEIR SAVINGS INTO PLANE

Faribault, Minn., July 28.—(U.P.)—Two local aviators lay injured today, one seriously, but owed their lives to an extensive shade tree on the Anderson farm here that broke their fall when their plane came spinning down from 1,000 feet.

Friends and other residents were taking up a popular collection for Eddie, 19, and Julius Teske, 24, brothers, who had put all their savings into the plane.

Eddie who was a star football player with the high school team last year, was at home today with cuts and bruises while Julius was in serious condition at St. Lucas hospital with a wrenched back and multiple cuts and bruises.

Eddie was taking lessons from Julius yesterday and was at the controls when the plane went into the spin from which he could not level it out.

CANADA VOTES ON MACKENZIE KING REGIME

SHALL THE 9-YEAR-OLD LIBERAL GOVERNMENT BE CONTINUED IN POWER

OR SHALL THE GOVERNMENT BE TURNED OVER TO THE CONSERVATIVES

Montreal, Canada, July 28.—(U.P.)—Canadian voters balloted today on the question of allowing the 9-year-old liberal government of Prime Minister Mackenzie King to continue in power, or turning the government over to the conservatives, headed by the Right Hon. R. B. Bennett.

Foremost among the policies to be decided by the voters' choice is that of a tariff aimed to protect the Dominion against competition by the United States.

If the conservatives win a majority of seats in the house of commons, as they claim they can, it is probable retaliatory measures will be taken against the Smoot-Hawley tariff bill. Prime Minister King, however, would continue his present policy of maintaining a low tariff regardless of the action of the United States.

Other major issues are unemployment and the industrial situation, seen as depressed by the conservatives. The liberals hold that the country has prospered under their regime, conservatives charge that the tariff policy was written to satisfy free trade opinion in western provinces, resulting in increased unemployment and the migration of Canadians to the United States.

The tariff also resulted in a decrease of articles manufactured in Canada, the conservatives claim, causing loss to the country's industry.

Both major parties are in favor of the St. Lawrence waterway project, despite the fact that Quebec, with 60 liberals out of 65 members in the house of commons, opposes it.

Conservatives faced the election today with the prediction that they would win 134 seats, enough to overthrow the liberals. Even though they do not accomplish this, there are indications they will cut down the majority of the King government.

The balloting is likely to be close, and it is possible that minor parties, such as the United Farmers of Alberta and the Farmers Party of Saskatchewan, will hold the balance of power.

Winnipeg, Man., July 28.—Perfect weather prevailed today over the prairie provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, bringing a record total of early voters to the polls in Canada's general election.

Tower, Minn., is Criticized by Chief Public Examiner

St. Paul, July 28.—(U.P.)—Tower, Minn., officials were criticized today in a report issued by Arthur Johnson, chief public examiner. The town purchased goods illegally, the report stated.

TOM MIX PAYS UP BACK TAXES ON INCOME RETURN

Los Angeles, July 28.—(U.P.)—Tom Mix, millionaire cowboy screen star, has softened Uncle Sam's heart with money.

Federal attorneys made this known today in announcing that three indictments charging the actor defrauded and conspired to defraud the government on his income tax returns have been quashed.

Mix paid his back taxes, penalties attached, and a court hearing set for today was marked off the calendar.

SHERIFF TRAPS 3 BANK BANDITS AT GLENCROFF, S. D.

TRIO ROBS BANK OF ABOUT $1,800 IN CURRENCY AND CHANGE

SHERIFF SHOOT AND KILLS 2 BANDITS, WOUNDS THIRD AS THEY BOARD THEIR CAR

Glencroff, S. D., July 28.—(U.P.)—Trapped by County Sheriff Henry Johnson, two bank raiders were killed today in a gun battle and a third seriously wounded.

Shortly after 10:30 A. M. today, the three men came into the bank. One took out his revolver and said, "Stick them up" to P. J. Shriver, cashier of the Glencroff State Bank, and his wife, who were alone in the bank.

The men gathered up the currency and change that was in the cashier's cage—about $1,800—and started for their waiting car.

The sheriff was waiting near the Pontiac automobile. He began shooting. Two of the bandits were killed outright and the third was so seriously injured that it was expected that he would not recover.

One of the dead bandits was identified as George Anderson. The second dead man was not immediately identified.

Melvin Feinton was the injured man. Anderson and Feinton were said by authorities here to have lived formerly at Timber Lake, S. D. The unidentified man was not known here, police said.

The men were between 27 and 30 years old, although their definite ages were not established.

Shriver declined to say how the sheriff had been tipped off.

"I'd rather not say anything about that," he explained.

The loss was covered by insurance although the loot was recovered from the pockets of the dead and wounded.

BANK BANDITS USE TEAR GAS BOMBS

Des Moines, Iowa, July 28.—Two bandits armed with pistols and covering their retreat with tear gas bombs, robbed the First Federal State Bank today of approximately $3,000.

FEAR FOR SAFETY OF 50 PERSONS

ALL NIGHT SEARCH FOR FISHING BOAT STARLIGHT OFF VENTURA, CALIF.

Ventura, Calif., July 28.—(U.P.)—Fears for the safety of more than 50 persons aboard the fishing boat Starlight were expressed by authorities today after an all-night search by coast guard cutters failed to locate the craft.

The Starlight left Hueneme Beach near here last evening for a fishing cruise in the channel between the Santa Barbara Islands. It had not been heard from at 5:15 A. M. today.

The coast guard was notified by the sheriff's office here and an all-night patrol of the channel was made. The cutter reported the channel was extremely rough but not sufficiently to capsize a vessel the size of the Starlight.

Most of the passengers were men and women from Los Angeles, San Gabriel and Glendale, it was said.

Deputy Sheriff H. O. Waterman said the craft may have stayed the night at Anacapa Island, one of the channel group, because of the rough water. The craft carried no wireless.

Ventura, Calif., July 28.—Two fishing boats, carrying approximately sixty persons, were reported missing off here today.

The Starlight, which was due back last night at Hueneme Beach with between 40 and 50 people who used it for a fishing cruise in the Santa Barbara islands, had not returned this morning.

Likewise, the Mary Ann, with 15 fishermen aboard, failed to return here last night from a trip to the Anacapa islands.

PROSTRATIONS NUMBERED TWO, DROWNINGS TWO

ALBERT R. DEBBERT, ST. PAUL, KILLED BY A HIT-AND-RUN DRIVER

FRANK HARDTKE AND SON, MINNEAPOLIS, KILLED IN HEAD-ON COLLISION

St. Paul, Minn., July 28.—(U.P.)—Heat which drove Twin City citizens to beaches and the highways for relief claimed 8 lives over the week-end.

The dead were: Heat prostrations: Emil Schwantz, 76, Inver Grove farmer, who died on Saturday night after a day in the fields, and Mrs. Catherine Fern, 77, Minneapolis, who was found dead in her room Saturday night.

Drownings: Edna Hene, 16, Henderson, Minn., drowned at Lake Phalen; Melvin Lee, 26, drowned at Bass Lake after a heart attack.

Automobile accidents: Alfred R. Debbert, 18, St. Paul, hit-and-run driver near Hutchinson, Minn.; Frank Hardtke, 55, and son, Erwin, 14, both of Minneapolis, were killed in a head-on collision on Highway No. 63.

Dragged by horse: Wayne W. Ridge, 12, St. Paul, who died on the farm of John Moran near Rosemount after being injured while attempting to ride horseback.

Thunderstorms brought some relief from the heat to Minnesota and the forecast for today was for slightly cooler weather. Tomorrow, however, will be fair and possibly warmer.

Pipestone, Minn., reported the hottest temperature of the state—which broke all previously reported records for that town. In the Twin Cities, a new record of 96.4 degrees, 2 of a degree above the July 10th record, was recorded.

Crops were reported to be suffering from the continued heat wave and farmers were anxiously scanning the skies for sign of rain.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 28.—Seven deaths by drowning were reported in Wisconsin and Northern Michigan today after the usual week-end outings on lakes and streams.

The dead include: Leonard Dube, 15, Escanaba, Mich. Louis Dube, Jr., 19, Escanaba, Mich. Ferdinand Buschman, 17, Milwaukee. Otto Haltner, Milwaukee. William Gensman, Pine River. Virginia Dahl, Superior. Steve Laiko, 13, Superior.

Sioux City, July 28.—Two children were killed near Howard, S. D., when an airplane ran into a windstorm on Saturday night, it was reported here today.

The victims, Cecil Erfman, 17, and his brother Clarence, 8, were thrown from the plane which turned upside down in the sudden windstorm, Merle Perrigo, pilot, said.

(By United Press)

Scorching heat and accidents caused by the wind and thunder storms that followed, took 16 lives in the north-west over the week-end.

Temperatures in Minnesota ranged over 90 degrees with some points reporting marks in the hundreds. The intense heat was followed by heavy thunderstorms in eastern Minnesota and the northern fringe of Wisconsin. The storms did thousands of dollars in crop damage and caused many traffic jams.

Minnesota had two deaths from heat prostration, four drownings, four deaths in automobile accidents and one from a fall from a horse. Eastern Wisconsin had two drownings and a death from electrocution when a wire was blown down by the storm. In South Dakota, two children were injured in an airplane crash.

Pipestone was the hottest point in Minnesota with 107, a new all time record. United Press reports from Worthington showed 104, Red Wing 103, New Ulm 103, and Faribault 100. Minneapolis had a mark of 98.1, one-tenth of a point lower than the record-breaking mark of July 10.

Thunderstorms hit heavily east of the Twin Cities, uprooting hundreds of shade trees, blowing off roofs and damaging crops. Grain was laid flat by the storms which approached cloudburst proportions in some places.

The heaviest shower was reported at Wausau, Wis., while more than half an inch of rain fell at Big Lake, Minn.

Nearly an inch of rain fell at Brainerd. Many trees were blown down across highways No. 18 and 19. Damage was also done to lake cottages.

The northwest was cooler today with a high pressure area sending down temperatures from Montana to Wisconsin. The prediction for Minnesota was "fair tonight and Tuesday. Cooler tonight."

Lake City, Minn., July 28.—Funeral arrangements were being made for Guy R. Peterson, 35, whose drowned body was recovered from Lake Pepin last night. Peterson had set out to swim to a boat but went down in 30 feet of water. He is survived by a wife and three children.

Four persons were killed and twenty seriously injured. The accident was the tragic climax to a gay picnic held by the employees of a packing company.

CANADA VOTES ON MACKENZIE KING REGIME

SHALL THE 9-YEAR-OLD LIBERAL GOVERNMENT BE CONTINUED IN POWER

OR SHALL THE GOVERNMENT BE TURNED OVER TO THE CONSERVATIVES

Montreal, Canada, July 28.—(U.P.)—Canadian voters balloted today on the question of allowing the 9-year-old liberal government of Prime Minister Mackenzie King to continue in power, or turning the government over to the conservatives, headed by the Right Hon. R. B. Bennett.

Foremost among the policies to be decided by the voters' choice is that of a tariff aimed to protect the Dominion against competition by the United States.

If the conservatives win a majority of seats in the house of commons, as they claim they can, it is probable retaliatory measures will be taken against the Smoot-Hawley tariff bill. Prime Minister King, however, would continue his present policy of maintaining a low tariff regardless of the action of the United States.

Other major issues are unemployment and the industrial situation, seen as depressed by the conservatives. The liberals hold that the country has prospered under their regime, conservatives charge that the tariff policy was written to satisfy free trade opinion in western provinces, resulting in increased unemployment and the migration of Canadians to the United States.

The tariff also resulted in a decrease of articles manufactured in Canada, the conservatives claim, causing loss to the country's industry.

Both major parties are in favor of the St. Lawrence waterway project, despite the fact that Quebec, with 60 liberals out of 65 members in the house of commons, opposes it.

Conservatives faced the election today with the prediction that they would win 134 seats, enough to overthrow the liberals. Even though they do not accomplish this, there are indications they will cut down the majority of the King government.

The balloting is likely to be close, and it is possible that minor parties, such as the United Farmers of Alberta and the Farmers Party of Saskatchewan, will hold the balance of power.

SHERIFF TRAPS 3 BANK BANDITS AT GLENCROFF, S. D.

TRIO ROBS BANK OF ABOUT $1,800 IN CURRENCY AND CHANGE

SHERIFF SHOOT AND KILLS 2 BANDITS, WOUNDS THIRD AS THEY BOARD THEIR CAR

Glencroff, S. D., July 28.—(U.P.)—Trapped by County Sheriff Henry Johnson, two bank raiders were killed today in a gun battle and a third seriously wounded.

Shortly after 10:30 A. M. today, the three men came into the bank. One took out his revolver and said, "Stick them up" to P. J. Shirver, cashier of the Glencroff State Bank, and his wife, who were alone in the bank.

The men gathered up the currency cache—about $1,800—and started for their waiting car.

The sheriff was waiting near the Pontiac automobile. He began shooting. Two of the bandits were killed outright and the third was so seriously injured that it was expected that he would not recover.

One of the dead bandits was identified as George Anderson. The second dead man was not immediately identified.

Melvin Feinton was the injured man. Anderson and Feinton were said by authorities here to have lived formerly at Timber Lake, S. D. The unidentified man was not known here, police said.

The men were between 27 and 30 years old, although their definite ages were not established.

Shirver declined to say how the sheriff had been tipped off.

"I'd rather not say anything about that," he explained.

The loss was covered by insurance although the loot was recovered from the pockets of the dead and wounded.

FEAR FOR SAFETY OF 50 PERSONS

ALL NIGHT SEARCH FOR FISHING BOAT STARLIGHT OFF VENTURA, CALIF.

Ventura, Calif., July 28.—(U.P.)—Fears for the safety of more than 50 persons aboard the fishing boat Starlight were expressed by authorities today after an all-night search by coast guard cutters failed to locate the craft.

The Starlight left Hueneme Beach near here last evening for a fishing cruise in the channel between the Santa Barbara Islands. It had not been heard from at 5:15 A. M. today.

The coast guard was notified by the sheriff's office here and an all-night patrol of the channel was made. The cutter reported the channel was extremely rough but not sufficiently to capsize a vessel the size of the Starlight.

Most of the passengers were men and women from Los Angeles, San Gabriel and Glendale, it was said.

Deputy Sheriff H. O. Waterman said the craft may have stayed the night at Anacapa Island, one of the channel group, because of the rough water. The craft carried no wireless.

Ventura, Calif., July 28.—Two fishing boats, carrying approximately sixty persons, were reported missing off here today.

The Starlight, which was due back last night at Hueneme Beach with between 40 and 50 people was made a fishing cruise in the Santa Barbara islands, had not returned this morning.

PROSTRATIONS NUMBERED TWO, DROWNINGS TWO

ALBERT R. DEBBERT, ST. PAUL, KILLED BY A HIT-AND-RUN DRIVER

FRANK HARDTKE AND SON, MINNEAPOLIS, KILLED IN HEAD-ON COLLISION

St. Paul, Minn., July 28.—(U.P.)—Heat which drove Twin City citizens to beaches and the highways for relief claimed 8 lives over the week-end.

The dead were:

Heat prostrations: Emil Schwantz, 76, Inver Grove farmer, who died on Saturday night after a day in the fields, and Mrs. Catherine Fern, 77, Minneapolis, who was found dead in her room Saturday night.

Drownings: Edna Hene, 16, Henderson, Minn., drowned at Lake Phalen; Melvin Lee, 26, drowned at Bass Lake after a heart attack.

Automobile accidents: Alfred R. Debbert, 18, St. Paul, hit-and-run driver near Hutchinson, Minn.; Frank Hardtke, 55, and son, Erwin, 14, both of Minneapolis, were killed in a head-on collision on Highway No. 63.

Dragged by horse: Wayne W. Ridge, 12, St. Paul, who died on the farm of John Moran near Rosemount after being injured while attempting to ride horseback.

Thunderstorms brought some relief from the heat in Minnesota and the forecast for today was for slightly cooler weather. Tomorrow, however, will be fair and possibly warmer.

Pipestone, Minn., reported the hottest temperature of the state—which broke all previously reported records for that town. In the Twin Cities, a new record of 96.4 degrees, 2 of a degree above the July 10th record, was recorded.

Crops were reported to be suffering from the continued heat wave and farmers were anxiously scanning the skies for sign of rain.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 28.—Seven deaths by drowning were reported in Wisconsin and Northern Michigan today after the usual week-end outings on lakes and streams.

The dead include: Leonard Dube, 15, Escanaba, Mich.; Louis Dube, Jr., 19, Escanaba, Mich.; Ferdinand Buschman, 17, Milwaukee; Otto Hattner, Milwaukee.

William Gensman, Pine River. Virginia Dahl, Superior. Steve Laiko, 13, Superior.

St. Louis, July 28.—Two children were killed on Howard, S. D., when an airplane ran into a windstorm on Saturday night, it was reported here today.

The victims, Cecil Erfman, 17, and his brother Clarence, 8, were thrown from the plane which turned upside down in the sudden windstorm, Merle Perigo, pilot, said.

(By United Press)

Scorching heat and accidents caused by the wind and thunder storms that followed, took 16 lives in the northwest over the week-end.

Temperatures in Minnesota ranged over 90 degrees with some points reporting marks in the hundreds. The intense heat was followed by heavy thunderstorms in eastern Minnesota and the northern fringe of Wisconsin. The storms did thousands of dollars in crop damage and caused many traffic jams.

Minnesota had two deaths from heat prostration, four drownings, four deaths in automobile accidents and one from a fall from a horse. Eastern Wisconsin had two drownings and a death from electrocution when a wire was blown down by the storm. In South Dakota, two children were injured in an airplane crash.

Pipestone was the hottest point in Minnesota with 107, a new all time record. United Press reports from Worthington showed 104, Red Wing 103, New Ulm 103, and Faribault 100. Minneapolis had a mark of 98.1, one-tenth of a point lower than the record-breaking mark of July 10.

Thunderstorms hit heavily east of the Twin Cities, uprooting hundreds of shade trees, blowing off roofs and damaging crops. Grain was laid flat by the storms which approached cloudburst proportions in some places.

The heaviest shower was reported at Wausau, Wis., while more than half an inch of rain fell at Big Lake, Minn.

Nearly an inch of rain fell at Brainerd. Many trees were blown down across highways No. 18 and 19. Damage was also done to lake cottages.

The northwest was cooler today with a high pressure area sending down temperatures from Montana to Wisconsin. The prediction for Minnesota was "fair tonight and Tuesday. Cooler tonight."

Lake City, Minn., July 28.—Funeral arrangements were being made for Guy R. Peterson, 35, whose drowned body was recovered from Lake Pepin last night. Peterson had set out to swim to a boat but went down in 30 feet of water. He is survived by a wife and three children.

Lake City, Minn., July 28.—The new main building of Lincoln high school suffered $9,000 damage from a fire because of a short circuit.

The thrill of swift, breath-taking motion was transformed into horror when four cars of a roller coaster in Krug Amusement Park, Omaha, Neb., plunged from the elevated tracks and dashed the riders thirty-five feet to the ground. Four persons were killed and twenty seriously injured. The accident was the tragic climax to a gay picnic held by the employees of a packing company.

This is really not a message from the environs of Hades but it is truly a greeting from Hell. The picture on the postcard is that of the Hell railway station. It doesn't look bad.

The Third Degree

By W. H. COLCLOUGH

"GO on, Jackson, go on! I tell you there is no use losing two lives. We are lost, hopelessly lost. We can't both get out—I am an old man with only a few years left to live, anyway."

Jackson weakened under the battery of the old man's logic. Nevertheless, he continued to register protests.

"We can surely make it," he said. "I can't leave you, Mr. Burton. Let's struggle on together. You know these woods and I will help you."

"No Jackson, we are done for. Go on without me—go straight south. I don't know how far, but I know that's the direction. Go south and you will come to a river. Follow it the way the stream flows and you will be sure to come to a hunter's cabin. Stay there until morning. Then get help, and come back here—back track and get my body."

The old man wheezed his commands. He staggered.

"Well, Mr. Burton, I don't like to leave you this way, and—"

"Go, Jackson," said Mr. Burton. "You haven't long. The storm's increasing. Leave me here. Tell them you were game, but that I sent you away. Hurry, Jackson."

Jackson gripped the old man's hand and turned toward the trackless south and safety. In twenty paces he stopped. He couldn't leave him. What would people say? What would the men at the office say? Besides, this was a coward's trick. It wasn't the Law of the North.

Why did they get into this fix anyway? Mr. Burton was supposed to be the best woodsman in this part of the Canadian Northland, and hunted here year after year. That is how it happened that Jackson, a young executive in Burton's big plant, had accepted an invitation to go moose hunting. Burton was old, but he was experienced—used to hunting without bothering about a guide in this territory.

But the unexpected had happened. Night was coming. They had been lost for several hours, and the old man was exhausted. And what had started as a drizzling rain gave promise of turning into snow before morning.

Yes—it seemed as if he had a right to the chance for his life, but—
In two minutes he was back beside the old man.

"Mr. Burton—I'm not going. You can say what you like, but we stay together, and if we go out, we'll go out together."

"You fool, Jackson," the old man argued. "You must go!"

But Jackson proceeded to break off such spruce crows as he could gather and make a rude shelter under the trees.

It was cold. No fire. Garments soaked. The old man trembling. Up north the howling of a wolf. In three seconds, an answer strangely and menacingly near echoed through the woods. A large tree not far away split with a sound like a rifle. They huddled together as best they could for warmth. Jackson shivered. The old man stirred.

"Jackson, I hear bells," he said. "Listen, Jackson! Don't you hear bells? Let's try again, Jackson. I think I know, now, how to get out of this place."

Vainly Jackson tried to pacify the older man and point out to him the futility of trying to find the way through a Canadian forest at night. Any hunter, even a tenderfoot, knows the impossibility of such a task.

But the old man, president of a large business organization and used to having his orders promptly obeyed, insisted.

"I'll stay here," Jackson thought, "and let the old fool go on alone. He's crazy now." And he let Burton start off through the darkness.

But in a few minutes Jackson was following him.

"Look, Jackson, there's a light." "Yes, a light, Mr. Burton." He might as well humor the wanderings of the half-crazed mind.

But—what was it? There was a light. Were they both crazy now? wondered Jackson as they stumbled on through the forest. It was a real light that shone and beckoned through the trees.

Then he felt a strange change come over the tottering old man. He straightened up and with resolute step marched toward the light. In ten paces they were in a small clearing. In the center stood a cabin with smoke pouring from its stove-pipe chimney. A wolf-like dog lifted his muzzle toward the sky and uttered a long-drawn howl and then went, with rattling chain, to his kennel.

Jackson pinched himself to see if he were awake. The door of the hut flew open. As Mr. Burton tramped in Jackson saw a middle-aged man in shirt sleeves smoking his pipe.

"You're late, chief," he said. "I was afraid you were lost—" "No, no, Brown," said Burton. "I sure wasn't lost. You couldn't get lost with Broncho howling like a wolf every few minutes the way she always does when I am out in the woods, even if I didn't know my way around this country as well as I do. No, Brown, I wasn't lost, but I had with me a young man I want to make manager of my western branch. I was testing him out. And, Brown, he'll do. I tell you he'll do, Brown."

Jackson pinched himself to see if he were awake. The door of the hut flew open. As Mr. Burton tramped in Jackson saw a middle-aged man in shirt sleeves smoking his pipe.

THEY'RE THEMSELVES AGAIN

The famous Bamberger-Watkins baby tangle has been solved and the parents of the babies have decided that there never was a mixup and that they will keep the infants the hospital delivered to them. With the controversy over and every one happy, the debaters posed for this picture. From left to right, standing, are J. P. Loughmane, the Bambergers' attorney; Dr. Robert McCalley, Charles Bamberger, Dr. Lewis K. Eastman, William Watkins, Dr. S. L. Hadden and Dr. H. R. Marsh, all of Chicago. Seated are Mrs. Bamberger (left) and Mrs. Watkins, with the babies. Since the picture was taken there has been another disagreement.

Just about the finest thing
That the fleeting years can bring
Is the comfort of a friendship staunch and true!
Life is full of happiness,
But all other joys mean less
Than the kindly deeds a friendly hand will do.

Wealth and fame are dearly bought
If their benefits are sought
At the sacrifice of loyal, helpful friends;
And the saddest man I know
Is the one compelled to go
All alone to where his earthly journey ends.

Friendship lights the darkest day,
And the rough and weary way
Is made pleasant by the sunshine of a smile;
Every joy brings twice the cheer
When the folks we love are near,
And our friends make all our blessings more
worth-while.

Emeralds Long Prized

Emeralds have always been found in Africa, and there were Egyptian mines many centuries before the Christian era. Asia, North America and Australia also produce the gems in small quantities. But the principal source is still the South American continent, Columbia and Peru being the centers of supply. The mines of Muzo and Cosquez in Columbia, discovered about 1550, supply the world with the greatest quantity, and finest quality, of emeralds.—World Traveler.

"Look, Jackson, there's a light." "Yes, a light, Mr. Burton." He might as well humor the wanderings of the half-crazed mind.

But—what was it? There was a light. Were they both crazy now? wondered Jackson as they stumbled on through the forest. It was a real light that shone and beckoned through the trees.

Then he felt a strange change come over the tottering old man. He straightened up and with resolute step marched toward the light. In ten paces they were in a small clearing. In the center stood a cabin with smoke pouring from its stove-pipe chimney. A wolf-like dog lifted his muzzle toward the sky and uttered a long-drawn howl and then went, with rattling chain, to his kennel.

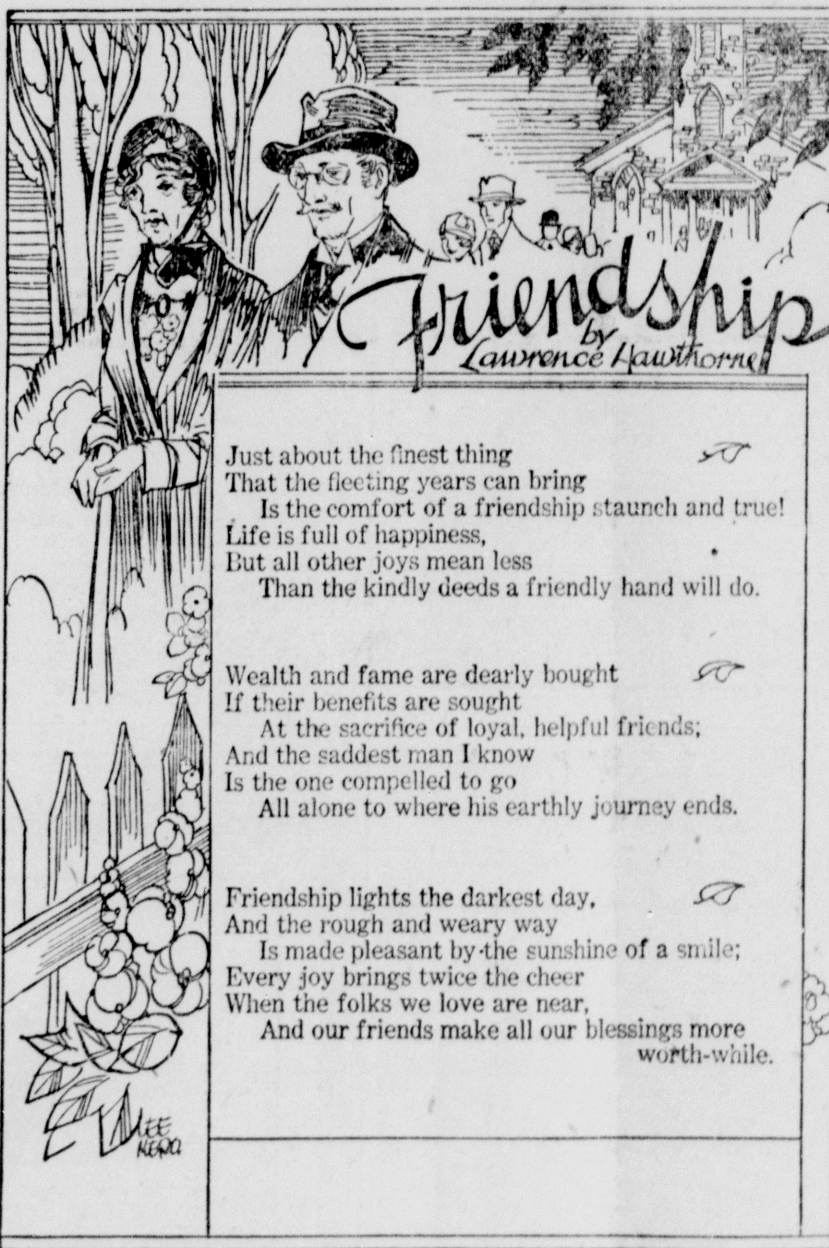

Jackson pinched himself to see if he were awake. The door of the hut flew open. As Mr. Burton tramped in Jackson saw a middle-aged man in shirt sleeves smoking his pipe.

"You're late, chief," he said. "I was afraid you were lost." "No, no Brown," said Burton. "I sure wasn't lost. You couldn't get lost with Broncho howling like a wolf every few minutes the way she always does when I am out in the woods, even if I didn't know my way around this country as well as I do. No, Brown, I wasn't lost, but I had with me a young man I want to make manager of my western branch. I was testing him out. And, Brown, he'll do. I tell you he'll do, Brown."

THEY'RE THEMSELVES AGAIN

The famous Bamberger-Watkins baby tangle has been solved and the parents of the babies have decided that there never was a mixup and that they will keep the infants the hospital delivered to them. With the controversy over and every one happy, the debaters posed for this picture. From left to right, standing, are J. P. Loughnane, the Bambergers' attorney; Dr. Robert McCalley, Charles Bamberger, Dr. Lewis K. Eastman, William Watkins, Dr. S. L. Hadden and Dr. H. R. Marsh, all of Chicago. Seated are Mrs. Bamberger (left) and Mrs. Watkins, with the babies. Since the picture was taken there has been another disagreement.

Just about the finest thing
That the fleeting years can bring
Is the comfort of a friendship staunch and true!
Life is full of happiness,
But all other joys mean less
Than the kindly deeds a friendly hand will do.

Wealth and fame are dearly bought
If their benefits are sought
At the sacrifice of loyal, helpful friends;
And the saddest man I know
Is one compelled to go
All alone to where his earthly journey ends.

Friendship lights the darkest day,
And the rough and weary way
Is made pleasant by the sunshine of a smile;
Every joy brings twice the cheer
When the folks we love are near,
And our friends make all our blessings more
worth-while.

Emeralds Long Prized

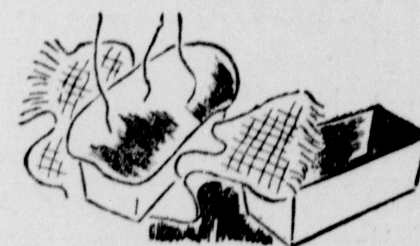

Emeralds have always been found in Africa, and there were Egyptian mines many centuries before the Christian era. Asia, North America and Australia also produce the gems in small quantities. But the principal source is still the South American continent, Columbia and Peru being the centers of supply. The mines of Muzo and Cosquez in Columbia, discovered about 1550, supply the world with the greatest quantity, and finest quality, of emeralds.—World Traveler.

Inspiration

AMATEUR writers and many other kinds of dilettante workers think no work can be accomplished until inspiration seizes them. Writers who know say there is nothing to the inspiration theory. In the arts as well as in common labor, nothing is accomplished except by hard work.

"Waiting for Inspiration is an Excellent Excuse for Semi-Perpetual Loafing," says Albert Payson Terhune in a leading article in the June issue of the Writer's Magazine.

"More literary boats have come to grief, or have failed to stir out of harbor, through this asinine folly of inspiration than from all other defects combined," says Mr. Terhune.

"In the first place, I rid myself at the outset of my long, if undistinguished career as a writer, of the ancient theory that literature is born of some mystic ethereal inspiration which comes wafting down from God-knows-where and kindles a divine flame in the brain of the would-be author. Of this, and of the notion that writers must wait patiently—or lazily—for such inspiration to descend upon them, I rid myself.

"Writing is as exact a trade as plumbing or carpentry. The house-builder can not loll back in hushed anticipation, waiting for a mysterious impulse to go on with his work. Neither can a story-builder. One is as much an artisan as is the other. One has no more excuse for working on erratic inspiration than has the other. Shiftlessness and lack of grinding application spell ruin to both. Each must undergo the same wearisome long apprenticeship before he is fit to strike out for himself in his chosen trade.

"Therefore I set for myself a certain number of hours of daily work at my desk, and I let nothing short of a disaster break in on these work-consecrated hours. Whether I felt like it or not, I forced myself to bring out a specified amount of work. Often—especially in the earliest years of the up-hill struggle—the day's results were pitifully bad in quality and had to be torn up. But practically never were they deficient in the quantity I had set myself to achieve.

"I write my stuff, then I lay it aside until I can tackle it with a fresh viewpoint and unblinded by the hypnotic glamour which goes so often with the glow of composition. Then, re-reading it as with the eyes of a stranger, I note its faults and its clumsiness and the many places where it can be improved. Sometimes the finished product is worth printing, sometimes it is not.

"When Carlyle defined genius as 'an infinite capacity for taking pains,' he was a million per cent nearer the truth than was the man who termed it 'a divine afflatus'—whatever that may mean. Work—work—and then much more work: That is the only sane recipe I know of, for even half-way success in writing."

The Philosophy of a Vacation

AN editorial in the Swift County Monitor gives quite a slant on the philosophy of a vacation. It is odd how hard people work to get a rest, and then, paradoxically as it may seem, actually require another vacation to recover from the first effort.

This is vacation time. Employees in local business places slip quietly away, one by one, to seek that elusive thing called rest. Some go on extended motor trips, some seek lake side seclusion. Others just stay in town and enjoy the sensation of not having to go to work.

Vacationing is an uncertain pursuit at the best. There is the element of weather. For the motorist cool weather is necessary for real enjoyment. For the lakeside vacationist the absence of mosquitoes adds much to joy of each day. For the person who just stays at home, a little to do each day is needed to keep up the interest in the vacation.

Getting away from one's work is a good thing, regardless of how much one may enjoy that work. All work has an element of routine. And, it is the routine that irks. But let the irked one go on a vacation and the effects of routine soon wear off. It may profitably be said, that even though a vacation is beset with fierce heat, hungry mosquitoes and a thousand other troubles, it is worth every minute of it. How pleasant it is to come back on one's regular job when taps have been sounded for vacation!

Bothering Fire Apparatus

FRANK FULLER, fire chief, has asked the Dispatch to make public another warning of his addressed to motorists who persist in "crowding in" on the apparatus as the firemen answer an alarm.

There were several cases of this kind which occurred when the department responded to a fire call in Northeast Brainerd. The firemen checked the car licenses of several offenders and they will be cited to appear in court.

In the future all cases of interference with the fire department as it responds to alarms will be prosecuted.

Summer Camp Fad in Sweden

THE summer camp, as it is known in America, is rapidly becoming very popular in Sweden, and more and more people are preferring to spend their vacation in a tent or cabin beside a lake or stream, in the mountains or on the seashore.

The Swedish Tourist Association has issued a booklet entitled, "Swedish Camps," which gives the location of 133 various places of this description, the majority of which are located in central and southern Sweden.

Rainfall Varies

STORMS which strike the Gull lake region generally split in the neighborhood of Squaw Point. There seems to be a natural air route which causes a divergence of storms and thus lessens the effect.

For instance Saturday night's storm brought a rainfall of 0.81 inches precipitation to Brainerd and 0.56 inches to Gull lake station.

THIRTY-ONE thousand persons in six cities inspected the world's largest steam locomotive, according to figures compiled at the general offices of the Northern Pacific. The N. P. engine measures 125 feet in length overall and weighs 1,118,000 pounds and attracted 18,000 persons when exhibited in the Twin Cities.

DEMAND for students to pick the bean crop in September may delay the opening of the New Richmond schools.

That a noise will travel faster through iron than through air? Scientists estimate that a sound passing through iron will reach the ear seventeen times quicker than if it passed through air, with no change in pitch.

Uncle Jake, who first said he shot the young man because he "wouldn't behave himself," will plead self-defense. Today's procedure went off quietly. There were reports beforehand the incident might fire up old mountain enmities and cause trouble.

SHIP MASTER TO GO ON TRIAL

Washington, July 28.—(LE)—Captain Archie H. Brooks, master of the S. S. Fairfax, which collided with the oil tanker Pinthis last month off the Massachusetts coast, will go on trial August 12 at Norfolk before a board of local inspectors of the steamboat inspection service on charges growing out of the collision.

FOR 3RD YEAR FRANCE WITHSTANDS DAVIS CUP CHALLENGE

BOROTRA AND COCHET ARE THE WINNERS SUNDAY

VICTORS AMIDST SCENES OF TREMENDOUS ENTHUSIASM AT PARIS

BOROTRA DEFEATS LOTT AFTER ONE OF HARDEST FOUGHT BATTLES OF SERIES

By JOHN WHITE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Paris, July 28.—For the third consecutive year, France has withstood successfully the challenge of the United States for the historic Davis Cup.

Winning both singles matches Sunday, Jean Borotra and Henri Cochet made the final count 4 to 1 in favor of France, amidst scenes of tremendous enthusiasm in Roland Garros stadium.

Borotra defeated George Lott of Chicago after one of the hardest fought battles in Davis Cup history, 5-7, 6-3, 2-6, 6-2, 8-6. Cochet won easily over William T. Tilden II, 4-6, 6-3, 6-1 and 7-5.

The defeat was as sound and convincing as any ever administered to the United States in a Davis Cup challenge round since 1911, when the Australians were invincible in the tennis world.

But while the Americans were beaten, they found some solace in the great fight put up by George Lott in the deciding singles match yesterday, a match packed with as thrilling, desperately contested tennis as the big stadium at Autel over has known.

The Chicago boy, facing a man whom he never has been able to defeat; with the knowledge that possession of the Davis Cup depended upon him, carried the battle to Borotra with dash and brilliance.

The complete scores of the 1930 challenge round follow:

W. T. Tilden II (U. S.)—D. Jean Borotra (F), 2-6, 7-5, 6-4, 7-5.

Henri Cochet (F)—D. George Lott (U. S.) 6-4, 6-2, 6-2.
Henri Cochet and Jacques Brugnon (F) D. Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn (U. S.) 6-3, 7-5, 1-6, 6-2.
Jean Borotra (F) D. George Lott (U. S.) 5-7, 6-3, 2-6, 6-2, 8-6.
Henri Cochet (F) D. W. T. Tilden II (U. S.) 4-6, 6-3, 6-1, 7-5.

McCaffrey and Reese both went to the finals yesterday at Crosby by bowling over some hard opposition despite the sweltering heat. The final match was postponed until Tuesday because of the extreme temperature.

McCaffrey defeated Curtis Johnson of Ironton, Art Eckron and Cal Orth in hard fought matches to win his way to the finals. Reese reached the finals by defeating Ray Anderson of Brainerd and C. L. Pierce of Minneapolis.

In some of the other matches Donald Geist of Brainerd defeated Ralph Johnson of Crosby. H. Pierce won from Elmer Peterson of Brainerd. C. L. Pierce won from his son, H. Pierce, by default. Eckron, Crosby, won from Hunter. Cal Orth, Brainerd, defeated Lane of Ironton and Donald Geist of Brainerd.

JEFF DICKSON, PROMOTER, SO BILLS ATTRACTION AT LONDON

WINNER MAY GET RECOGNITION FROM BRITISH BOXING BOARD OF CONTROL

Ringside, Wimbledon Stadium, London, July 28.—Young Stribling of Georgia, defeated Phil Scott of England before a crowd of 45,000 here tonight in a match billed for the "world's heavyweight championship." Stribling knocked out the Englishman in the second round of a scheduled 10-round bout.

London, July 28.—(U.P.)—Another claimant to the world's heavyweight boxing championship will be developed tonight when Young Stribling of Georgia and Phil Scott of England meet in a 10-round heavyweight bout at Wimbledon stadium.

Jeff Dickson, promoter of the bout, has billed the attraction as "for the world's heavyweight championship," the winner may get recognition from at least the British boxing board of control, which has failed to recognize Max Schmeling's claims.

Stribling is a favorite, but there is little betting on the outcome although Lloyd's has offered odds of 2 and 2½ to 1 that Stribling will win.

No provisions have been made to prevent the bout from ending in a foul. The last time Stribling appeared here he lost to Primo Carnera on a foul. Scott has either won on a foul or claimed foul in his last half dozen bouts.

How Youth Is Serving

By HARDIN BURNLEY

TIME-HONORED, indeed, is the idea that "youth will be served" in practically all of humanity's pursuits, especially in strenuous sports where wear and tear dull all but the most extraordinary of old competitive blades after comparatively few seasons. Great veterans make valiant and oft successful stands against the surge of youthful rivals but, on the latter come, the old order ever changing to the new.

Boxing is studded with striking examples of youth's triumph, from John L. Sullivan's and Jim Corbett's days, through Dempsey's and Tunney's, right up to the 35-year-old Godfrey's recent foul fadeout when swiftly fatigued by the 23-year-old Camera. The old 33s give youth many a whaling back of Bobby with the Horton Smiths, Denny Shutes, et al, preparing for higher honors.

Glenna Collett, Maureen Orcutt and a dozen other noted links-women for the past several years are already experiencing stern competition from the younger element, Miss Helen "Billy" Hicks recently defeating those veterans to win the New York State women's championship.

Conspicuous in sport, the youth of today is the veteran of a not so distant tomorrow. Always, the young generation comes on like the tide to succeed its predecessor. Fortunately in all branches of athletics, Uncle Sam seems to have more than a liberal supply of future champions among the present oncoming young generation.

but, sooner or later, they meet defeat when Father Time puts them under wraps.

Though Tilden dazzled in old-time style this year, Uncle Sam has been working for more than a year to develop his youthful court stars, bright among which flames Wilmer Allison, of Texas, who conquered Henri Cochet at Wimbledon. A few years ago it was Tilden, Bill Johnston and "Frank" Hunter. "Big Bill" is still a wonder, but the others have been succeeded by the Allison, Lotts, Doegs, Mangins and Bells of the next generation.

Bobby Jones, only 28, is assuredly the world's greatest golfer. In that game a great player lasts rather long. But already youth is thundering (though in the seeming distance) back of Bobby with the Horton Smiths, Denny Shutes, et al, preparing for higher honors.

Glenna Collett, Maureen Orcutt and a dozen other noted links-women for the past several years are already experiencing stern competition from the younger element, Miss Helen "Billy" Hicks recently defeating those veterans to win the New York State women's championship.

Braierd won a hard fought game from Cloquet at the northern town yesterday by the score of 7 to 6, featured by the heavy hitting of Peterson who clouted the pill for three doubles and a triple in five times at bat.

Swanson pitched a steady game and had the contest well in hand except in the sixth when with two out and the bases filled, a fly ball into center field hit a tree and bounded out of reach of the fielder.

Nutting's fielding was another feature of the game. On one occasion he threw the ball from deep center to home plate to catch a runner attempting to score. He retired six men on flies.

The tying run was brought in in the ninth inning by a nicely executed delayed steal by Uddenberg and Nutting, the latter scoring from third, Uddenberg taking second and later coming home for the winning run on Peterson's double.

The next game is slated to be played here Thursday evening, July 31, at 6 o'clock with Aitkin forming the opposition. Baseball practice is set for Tuesday evening.

PAT SAWYER, 16, WINS STATE AMATEUR GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

Rochester, Minn., July 28.—(U.P.)—The youngest golfer ever to hold the Minnesota amateur championship today had possession of the trophy—symbolic of five straight victories over veterans, some of them twice his age.

Pat Sawyer, 16, Golden Valley, Minneapolis, won the cup Saturday over the Rochester Country club course. Today experts were comparing the youngster champion to Bobby Jones.

The similarity in the careers of the two attracted note. Sawyer is just 16, the same age at which Jones won his first important title, the Georgia state amateur.

Sawyer's build and game also approximate those of the younger Jones.

The DAIRY

IT PAYS TO FEED
COWS IN SUMMER

Big Mistake to Overlook Grain in Dairy Ration.

New York dairymen who do not feed grain to their milk cows in summer while they are on pasture are overlooking a sure method of increasing their net income, says F. B. Morrison, head of the animal husbandry department at Cornell university. It is surprising, he says, that many men who take much trouble in providing their cows with excellent rations during the barn feeding period of the year, depend blindly on Dame Nature in summer.

Pasture alone was satisfactory for cows in early days, when even the best of them yielded an amount of milk we would now consider too low for profit. By skillful selection and breeding, the modern high-yielding dairy cow has been developed, with a capacity for producing milk so great that any ordinary pasture will not furnish her enough feed both for milk production and for body maintenance.

The proper feeding of milk cows on pasture is much simpler than during the winter, and, says Professor Morrison, doubtless this is the reason why so many farmers, busy with their crops, fail to give their herd the necessary attention in summer. Often the cows are merely turned to pasture after milking at night and morning, with no further thought as to the supply of feed actually available for them. It is no wonder that when pasturage becomes scanty in midsummer, the cows run down in flesh and fall off decidedly in milk yield. Even if fed liberally when barn-feeding starts in the fall, quite commonly they cannot then be brought back to normal and usual production.

It is especially important to feed grain liberally when pastures become short and parched. This is important any year, and of particular importance this summer, when every far-sighted dairymen desires to do his share in providing sufficient milk in the New York milk shed during the shortage period next November.

Under typical pasture conditions in the state, he says, experience shows that it is best to feed a grain mixture containing about 18 per cent protein, at the rate of one pound of grain to three pounds of Jersey and Guernsey milk, and one pound of grain to four pounds of Holstein, Ayrshire, or Shorthorn milk.

Increase Profitable Butterfat Production

The following are essentials in profitable butterfat production, according to H. H. Kildee, formerly of the dairy husbandry division of the University of Minnesota, University farm, St. Paul.

Proper shelter in a warm, light, well ventilated barn. The leeward side of a barbed wire fence is an expensive shelter for milk cows.

A knowledge of the herd through the use of milk scales and the Babcock test.

Corn silage and clover or alfalfa hay as palatable, profitable, palatable feeds.

A grain ration in proportion to milk and butterfat produced.

Fall calving as a means of increasing production as well as price at a time when more labor is available.

A bushel of grain fed before calving rather than two fed afterward. Prepare the cows for the milking period.

Water of moderate temperature. Ice water is not conducive to greatest milk production.

A milking machine in case of labor shortage.

Co-operation with the neighbors in organizing cow-testing associations and purchasing feeds in carload lots.

Grinding Roughage for Cows Saves All Waste

Three members of the Bedford (Pa.) dairy herd improvement association are grinding roughage. Tester Willard Straw reports, "This practice does away with practically all waste," says he. Soy bean hay run through a feed-mill, plus a commercial dairy feed used in connection with silage and home-grown grains, enabled Carl Armstrong's herd (Kendall county, Illinois) to place second in the testing association, with an average of 747 pounds of milk in a month.

George Smith (also of Kendall county), the following month, secured an average of 706 pounds by feeding a 34 per cent commercial dairy feed along with ground oats and ground barley, clover hay and silage.

Ask Blood Test

Many states require the blood test on breeding cattle entering them, about fifteen in all. North Carolina was the first. Now we find in this list Georgia, Alabama, Arkansas, Mississippi, Oklahoma, Indiana, Iowa, Ohio, Texas and West Virginia. Ohio is practically surrounded by states requiring a blood test on shipments of breeding animals. Minnesota, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, South Dakota and Oregon prohibit entrance of animals positive to the blood test.

Ruins of Clonmacnoise Venerated by Irishmen

Clonmacnoise occupies a delightful spot on a series of small eminences upon the banks of the River Shannon. Only a small part of the great abbey building is still traceable, but there are numerous ruins of churches and other structures once connected with it, some of them far off in the surrounding valleys.

The principal ruin is that of the great abbey church and cathedral, built in 909 by Abbot Colman Cohaill, with the assistance of King Flann Sinna, son of Malachy I, in whose honor the abbey erected before the entrance a great stone cross with Irish inscriptions and sculptures representing Biblical scenes, which have given it its name of Crossa-Scrappa, "Cross of the Scriptures."

Near it are two round towers which answered the combined purpose of bell-towers in time of peace and places of refuge and defense when danger threatened.

In the Thirteenth and Fourteenth centuries this church was rebuilt by Tomultech MacDermott, and is now known as the Teampul MacDermott. The last of the Irish kings, Roderick O'Connor, lies near its altar with his father Turlough.

Clonmacnoise is still the favorite burial place of Ireland, and many hundreds of faithful are laid to rest every year in the sacred dust upon which St. Kiernan trod, and after him so many generations of the great and holy men and women of Erin.—Washington Star.

Mexican Code of Honor Strange to Americans

In many business places of the City of Mexico, cuspidors are chained to the desk or wall to prevent some intruder from carrying them off. On the streets office boys carry thousands of dollars in canvas bags on their shoulders from banks to offices. Business men convey the day's receipts to the banks shortly before the closing hour. Their habits in this respect are known to every crook in Mexico, yet it isn't once a year they meet with a holdup. One's cook is trusted with from $10 to $20 to go to the market, and she returns and accounts for the money, yet while her employer's back is turned, she will shove five cents worth of tea, coffee or sugar into her pocket. To take money entrusted to her to do the marketing would be thieving, but in taking little things from the kitchen supplies, she is following the custom of the ages.

Death Ended Argument

An awesome debate between two Basuto witch doctors recently ended sensationally at Teyateyaneng, North Basutoland. The witch doctors were arguing about their powers before a great crowd of natives, and the elder of the two stated with considerable emphasis that the other was "only a boy" and could not possibly have the powers which he himself claimed to have. He added that if he (the elder) would die, the younger should die, he would die. The younger man took up the challenge and the older one pointed at him with a stick and said solemnly, "You will die." The young man then rose to his feet, staggered and fell against some barbed wire and immediately expired. The other witch doctor was placed under arrest, but was released after the post mortem examination which showed death to be due to a stricture.

Ivy Unpopular

Ivy has so long been used as a symbol of close and undying affection that it is uncomfortable to find a controversy going on as to how to kill and exterminate this "pestiferous plant." It is a beautiful thing, ivy; its leaves are exquisitely shaped; its color is satisfying. Yet we are told now to look upon it as an enemy both to buildings and trees. All the same, I know walls covered thick with ivy where I used to locate birds' nests, which I shall always regard with affection. And I have known trees smothered by ivy which were far less pleasant to look on than the creeper which deprived them of life.—Montreal Family Herald.

Mongol Never Hurried

Caravans cannot be hurried, for the Mongol takes his own time. Centuries of experience have taught him how much a camel can successfully do, and he will not push his animals beyond their endurance. Camel caravans can penetrate to every nook and corner of Mongolia, bringing out valuable products for export. The Mongol camel puller will guide his caravan straight across the plain to any desired destination and there pack his loads and take good care of them, but often he will be a year, or two or three years, bringing in the goods.—Frans August Larson's "Horses and Business" in Atlantic Monthly.

Before Age of Baths

In the days of Cromwell public bathing, no matter how heavily attired the bathers were, was strictly forbidden and our Puritan forefathers brought this rule over to New England with them, so it is very likely that on warm days 300 years ago what bathers might be found on the beaches of Massachusetts were Indians, with, perhaps, an occasional backsliding Puritan.

Another Puritan law was that if a person must bathe, it should be in a dark room, with no mirrors, alone, and at night.

IT PAYS TO FEED COWS IN SUMMER

Big Mistake to Overlook Grain in Dairy Ration.

New York dairymen who do not feed grain to their milk cows in summer while they are on pasture are overlooking a sure method of increasing their net income, says F. B. It is surprising, he says, that many men who take much trouble in providing their cows with excellent rations during the barn feeding period of the year, depend blindly on Dame Nature in summer.

Ivy has so long been used as a symbol of close and undying affection that it is uncomfortable to find a controversy going on as to how to kill and exterminate this "pestiferous plant." It is a beautiful thing, ivy; its leaves are exquisitely shaped; its color is satisfying. Yet we are told now to look upon it as an enemy both to buildings and trees. All the same, I know walls covered thick with ivy where I used to locate birds' nests, which I shall always regard with affection. And I have known trees smothered by ivy which were far less pleasant to look on than the creeper which deprived them of life.—Montreal Family Herald.

Mongol Never Hurried

Caravans cannot be hurried, for the Mongol takes his own time. Centuries of experience have taught him how much a camel can successfully do, and he will not push his animals beyond their endurance. Camel caravans can penetrate to every nook and corner of Mongolia, bringing out valuable products for export. The Mongol camel puller will guide his caravan straight across the plain to any desired destination and there pack his loads and take good care of them, but often he will be a year, or two or three years, bringing in the goods.—Frans August Larson's "Horses and Business" in Atlantic Monthly.

Before Age of Baths

In the days of Cromwell public bathing, no matter how heavily attired the bathers were, was strictly forbidden and our Puritan forefathers brought this rule over to New England with them, so it is very likely that on warm days 300 years ago what bathers might be found on the beaches of Massachusetts were Indians, with, perhaps, an occasional backsliding Puritan.

Another Puritan law was that if a person must bathe, it should be in a dark room, with no mirrors, alone, and at night.

FOUNTAIN INN PREY TO FIRE EARLY TODAY

Flames Cause $10,000 Loss to Confectionery Store and $5,000 to Block

30 FIREMEN ON SCENE

Fire Gains Start in Basement, Sweeps Upward and Through Store

Starting in the basement, its source as yet undetermined, fire swept through that section, up through the floor and completely gutted the entire interior of the Fountain Inn, 614 Front street early today.

The confectionery store, the largest in the city, had a loss estimated to run over $10,000. The Grandmeyer block in which it is situated was also hit by fire, smoke, and water, doing a damage to the building of more than $5,000, estimates revealed.

Practically all fire loss and that caused by smoke and water is covered by insurance.

The block is the property of Mrs. Rose Parker and has an insurance coverage of $10,000. Mrs. Parker who resides in an apartment on the second story and Ed. Huletter, owner of a sleeping room, had losses by smoke and water to household goods, the fire being confined chiefly to the interior of the Fountain Inn, the property of John Kollas. Damage was also caused by water and smoke to the Louis Hostager store adjoining.

The Brainerd fire department received the alarm by telephone at 1:58 a. m. Four regulars and 26 volunteer men responded. The fire had gained such headway when first noticed that firemen were handicapped in getting the flames under control early. They fought the fire until 6:50 a. m. putting out four lines for a total of 2500 feet of hose. Connections were made at hydrants at the corners of 6th and Front, 7th and Front, 7th and Laurel and 6th and Laurel streets.

Fred Reinhardt, first aid man of the department was kept busy giving aid to firemen cut by steel ceilings and glass. Fortunately however no serious injuries were caused.

Fire Chief Frank Fuller today expressed commendation of the work of his men, giving them credit for keeping the fire concentrated in the one store.

So serious did the fire appear at the start that fear was expressed that the flames would spread to other buildings on Front street.

While firemen fought the flames at close distance the kitchen floor sagged and a heavy range started a downward plunge into the basement. It still rests in an opening of the floor.

The fire made a path from the kitchen to the main part of the confectionery store consuming the booths and travelling along the floor, walls and ceilings to the fountain and front part.

Fire Chief Fuller said that in actual fire loss the fire was the worst since the Brainerd high school fire, although the Hall Music House fire last month caused more damage. It was the second fire at the Fountain Inn location in its past five years.

URGES CAUTION IN BURNING RUBBISH

Fire Chief Frank Fuller today urged people to use caution in the burning of rubbish, emphasizing a city regulation requiring the burning of any rubbish in a container.

"Fires may easily start by blowing embers and burning paper, particularly when there is a strong wind," he said. Disregard of the law will result in prosecution, he declared.

Wind Carries Burning Rubbish a Block; Flooded in City Streets

Rain accompanied by a fast wind struck Brainerd and the lake region for better than an hour Saturday night doing considerable damage to cottages and blowing down trees. No injuries were reported to anyone. Motorists caught on highways pulled off the roads and waited for the summer electrical rain storm to blow over.

During the height of the storm at 7:55 p. m. the Brainerd fire department was called out to extinguish a small blaze in rubbish near the Nash-Finch Co. business house and warehouse, Front street. While the blaze was of slight consequence, the heavy wind picked up burning rubbish and carried it one block south to Laurel street causing a hazard.

Officially recorded as 0.81 inches the rain that fell overfilled sewer holes and manholes in various sections of the city causing the water to overflow to many basements. No trees were reported down in the city.

The severest damage of the storm was reported in the outlying districts where the wind blew down trees and the rain flooded cottages.

Trees were down on Highway No. 18 and week end motorists to the Brainerd region were forced to drive in single line past them near Mills Lake.

Several motorists had narrow escapes dodging falling trees on Highway No. 19 near Pequot while an oak tree, a foot and a half at the stump, was blown down, torn off near the ground at the Gull Lake dam station. Another tree, a pine measuring 'the same at the stump, was uprooted at the school house near the station.

Lightning struck a haystack near Gull River and burned two tons of hay.

A tip . . . from Andrew Carnegie

Asked to explain his phenomenal success, Andrew Carnegie blandly attributed it to his ability to get men to work for him who knew more than he did.

And that's a formula for success. Nobody who is really successful does all the work himself. He employs other people's minds and efforts.

Do you do the same in the intricate business of running your home and taking care of your family? You can, quite easily.

You can employ specialists in diet; you can serve the master dishes of famous chefs; you can have the advice of style authorities in selecting your clothes, of whole electrical laboratories in buying household appliances, by reading the advertisements.

TEN YEAR OLD BOY EMPLOYS POETRY IN GAINING FINE PONY

Charles Peterson, ten year old 4-H club member of Nokay Lake township, has his eye and his heart on a pony.

The pony is owned by the Murrys and its a peach. So Charles revealed in a poem he composed which tells of his love for the animal and his desire to possess it.

Soon the pony may be his for the poetic appeal carries much power. Charles' parents were the first to receive it.

The poem follows:

Murrys Pony

Murrys have a pony
That I like awful well
It has the name of "Tony"
And its Mother's name is "Bell."

It sure is a peach of a pony
Marked pretty with white and brown
And I watch it as far as I can see
While we're on our way to town.

I've always wanted a pony
Since I was knee-high to a duck,
And as soon as I saw Tony
I thought I was in luck.

If I am, or if I'm not,
This poem is a hunt to tell,
I'd sure like to buy your pony,
Because I like him awful well.

"WHERE'S EMILY?"

by CAROLYN WELLS

CHAPTER XXIX.

So, Rod listened to the solemn services, rejoicing that they were for some one else than his darling, wherever she might be. Time might bring back Emily; it could never bring back Pauline.

As Aunt Judy had said, Mr. Spinks was just as much at home at a funeral as at a wedding. His manner was perfect; he went round with just the proper shade of professional woe on his face, and his darting eyes saw to it that every teeny weeny detail was perfect, so's the whole bloom'd show would be perfect, and it was.

Then again that wonderful music, which might not have sounded quite so heavenly had it not been for the accessories, but which, with the shaded lights, the softly breathing people, the fragrance of the flowers and the odor of sanctity, was like strains from the celestial harps themselves.

And then, under the competent management of Spinks, the flower-lead casket was reverently borne out and placed in the beautiful new, dull-black motor-hearse, and all that was mortal of Pauline Pennington was laid to rest in the Hilldale God's Acre, and the Hilldale people were perhaps justified in their feeling that really, God must be rather proud of that particular acre of His.

The three men walked home in silence, until Gibby said:

"Did you see the Swami?"

"Yes," said Lamb, "and I'm free to confess I thoroughly detest that blackbird."

"So do I," agreed Pete, who was craning his neck to look through the trees.

"Don't twist your neck, Pete," Rodney said to him, "she isn't home."

"How do you know?" asked Pete.

"I told Aunt Judy to have the big flag run up if she came home, and we could see that from here."

"Yes, of course."

"The church was on an eminence the other side of town from Knollwood, and from where they stood, the men could clearly see the great house that Emily's father had built."

"Stand still a minute," said Pete, "let me look the landscape over. There's Knollwood, clear enough. Then the road is hidden, but you can just see the bridge over the big ravine. Whose house is that next one?"

"That's the Miller house," answered Sayre. "It's closed; they're in Europe."

"Yes; and then comes the little ravine; you can see that bridge clearly. And that's the Pennington house next? The one high on the hill?"

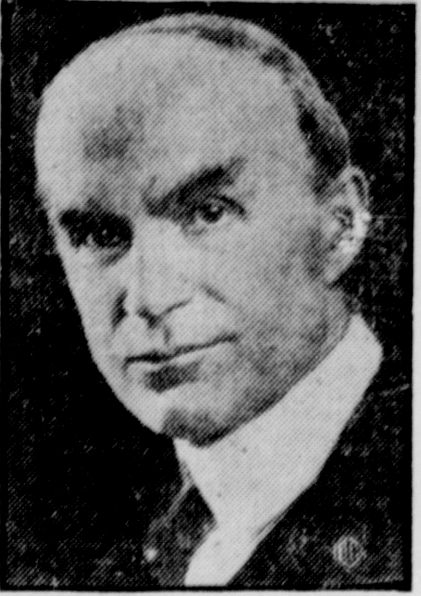

"Yes, it's high, but it's an easy path up to it. It's a charming house inside, though not very large. That is, not in comparison with Knollwood. They called it The Ravines, because it's over in that section. I suppose he'll sell the place now."

"Then, as the road goes on," continued Pete, surveying the scene, "it finally reaches the hospital, by a rather a roundabout route."

"Yes," Rodney agreed. "That's why nearly everybody goes cross-lots, as they call it, though really, they mean through the woods."

They traced the various roads and lanes for a few moments longer, and then walked on home. Burton Lamb felt it incumbent on him to be at his best during the crucial period of what would have

"WHERE'S EMILY?"

by CAROLYN WELLS

CHAPTER XXIX.

So, Rod listened to the solemn services, rejoicing that they were for some one else than his darling, wherever she might be. Time might bring back Emily; it could never bring back Pauline.

As Aunt Judy had said, Mr. Spinks was just as much at home at a funeral as at a wedding. His manner was perfect; he went round with just the proper shade of professional won on his face, and his darting eyes saw to it that "every teeny weeny detail was perfect, so's the whole bloom'n' show would be perfect," and that was.

Then again that wonderful music, which might not have sounded quite so heavenly had it not been for the accessories, but which, with the shaded lights, the softly breathing people, the fragrance of the flowers and the odor of sanctity, was like strains from the celestial harps themselves.

And then, under the competent management of Spinks, the flower-lead casket was reverently borne out and placed in the beautiful new, dull-black motor-hearse, and all that was mortal of Pauline Pennington was laid to rest in the Hilldale God's Acre, and the Hilldale people were perhaps justified in their feeling that really, God must be rather proud of that particular acre of His.

The three men walked home in silence, until Rod said:

"Did you see the Swami?"

"Yes," said Lamb, "and I'm free to confess I thoroughly detest that blackbird."

"So do I," agreed Pete, who was craning his neck to look through the trees.

"Don't twist your neck, Pete," Rodney said to him, "she isn't home."

"How do you know?" asked Pete.

"I told Aunt Judy to have the big flag run up if she came home, and we could see that from here."

"Yes, of course."

The church was on an eminence the other side of town from Knollwood, and from where they stood, the men could clearly see the great house that Emily's father had built.

"Stand still a minute," said Pete, "let me look the landscape over. There's Knollwood, clear enough. Then the road is hidden, but you can just see the bridge over the big ravine. Whose house is that next one?"

"That's the Miller house," answered Sayre. "It's closed; they're in Europe."

"Yes; and then comes that little ravine; you can see that bridge clearly. And that's the Pennington house next? The one high on the hill?"

"Yes, it's high, but it's an easy path up to it. It's a charming house inside, though not very large. That is, not in comparison with Knollwood. They called it The Ravines, because it's over in that section. I suppose he'll sell the place now."

"Then, as the road goes on," continued Pete, surveying the scene, "it finally reaches the hospital, by a rather a roundabout route."

"Yes," Rodney agreed. "That's why nearly everybody goes cross-lots, as they call it, though really, they mean through the woods."

They traced the various roads and lanes for a few moments longer, and then walked on home. Burton Lamb felt it incumbent on him to be at his best during the crucial period of what would have been the noontide wedding—he hadn't the slightest hope that Emily would appear—so, having concluded that a moderately light tone was the best to adopt, he said, casually:

"No use blinking facts, Rod. We'll just sit tight and wait. Also, as Aunt Judy told the girls, we won't dolly up until Emily comes; there'll be time enough then."

"Yes," said Sayre, looking gravely at his two friends. "There's nothing to be done. Some things a fellow has to take standing, with his back to the wall."

"Yep," agreed Lamb. "What's your theory now, as things are?"

Lamb put the question advisedly. He was sure Sayre would rather talk about it than to have the matter avoided, and he proposed to keep the subject open.

And he was right. Sayre didn't care to talk to the multitude about it, but he was glad to unburden his heart to these friends.

"I did think she was teasing me," he said, "or, perhaps testing me. But I don't think that any more. I think now she was kidnapped. I don't know anything about the question of the fur and diamonds. That's beyond my surmising. But I know Emily is not absent of her own volition. That I am sure of. So, I can think of

"Of course," Rod assented, "The Hilldale people are bidden to a party and a party they must have."

no explanation except abduction. I think we'll soon get a letter asking ransom. If so, I shall pay it, without help or interference from the police. The principle may be all wrong, but I don't care. If any amount of money that I can command will get Emily back, I shall have her as soon as the stipulations can be carried out. So, that's that."

"All right, I'm glad to know where we stand," Burton said. "Now, we'll go home and keep a stiff upper lip."

"Of course we will," said Sayre. "Whining or sulking won't help any. And Aunt Judy is such a brick we must stand by her. Supposing Emily doesn't show up by noon, and I admit I don't really expect her, we must go right ahead and let the affair be a party if not a wedding. The preparations are all made and the guests have not been notified not to come, so they have a right to expect due and proper entertainment."

"You'll be around?" asked Pete. "Yes. It would be childish for me to absent myself. If my heart is breaking there's no use announcing the fact by mooping in solitude. I'll be around, and I'll talk to any body who wants to talk to me. There's nothing to conceal. Everybody knows as much about the whole affair as we know ourselves. It seems to me the only rational and common-sense way to act is the way I've just mapped out."

"Right you are," agreed Gibby. "I'll do my part to help the people have a good time. There'll be music and dancing and all that. Just the same, I suppose."

"Of course," Rod assented. "The Hilldale young people are bidden to a party, and a party they must have. And, remember, there's no tragedy as yet. With Emily, I mean. Poor Pauline's death is tragic enough, but that's outside our plans for the moment. I've thought this thing out thoroughly, and I know I'm right. I will not allow a foregone conclusion that anything serious has happened to Emily. If it has, time enough to take it up when we discover it. Meantime, we are uncertain, but not unhelpful."

The two men, listening, knew that this was by way of an ultimatum. They understood that they were to fashion their behavior in the lines laid down by Sayre. They knew that he had not said all this unthinkingly, or without long and serious consideration of the attitude he should assume before the public.

And they realized that he had chosen the best role, albeit it must be for him a hard one. A less courageous man would have gone off by himself while the guests were present, and only reappeared after the last one had departed.

To Be Continued Tomorrow.

No More Piles

HEM-ROID, the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, is guaranteed to banish any form of Pile misery. It gives quick action even in old, stubborn cases. HEM-ROID succeeds because it heats and strengthens the affected parts and removes blood congestion in the lower bowel—the cause of piles. Only an internal medicine can do this, that's why salves and cutting fail. H. P. Dunn, Johnson's Pharmacy and druggists everywhere sell HEM-ROID with guarantee that it cost you nothing if it doesn't end all Pile agony. advt.
